

John H. Caldwell

John Caldwell founded Caldwell Associates in 1988 after more than 20 years representing volume users in the commercial travel industry. In the late '70s, Mr. Caldwell represented corporate travel departments in the "Competitive Marketing Investigation," the precedent setting administrative proceeding which led to domestic airline fare and agency deregulation. He has since become recognized as an industry leader in developing innovative approaches to travel management.

Mr. Caldwell has spearheaded numerous complex consulting projects, producing major savings and enhanced service for clients worldwide. He personally directs and supervises all firm projects, ensuring that each client receives the responsive, high quality service, for which the firm is known. Due to his breadth of industry experience, he is often called upon to evaluate marketplace conditions and identify cost containment opportunities.

Mr. Caldwell is a contributing columnist for Business Travel News. He appears frequently as a speaker and moderator at industry seminars on travel purchasing, corporate-travel agency relationships, industry developments, technology, policy, service configurations, negotiations and contracting.

Mr. Caldwell is an honors graduate of Hamilton College and received his LL.B. from the Harvard Law School.
