

April 19, 2005

Dear Mr. Breaux:

I'm a proponent of the sales tax in lieu of the income tax. I've always been for user taxes as being the most fair. It gives citizens more flexibility and control over their own expenses.

My husband and I both work hard and would like to save more money for our financial security. Paying excessive income taxes has prevented us from doing so. We've raised a family and put our children through school, and we've worked hard.

I thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

Mary Brittnacher